opportunities for artistic expression at PC

artwork and writings contributed to Tidepools, PC's literary magazine

• Peninsula College Choir
• Peninsula College Jazz Ensemble
• College-produced plays
• Film studies in association with the Magic of Cinema film series
• Drawing, painting, and media classes for credit
• And more

associate of arts degree requirements

• 90 credits, including 60 credits selected from the approved list of Distribution Courses*
• English 111 and 112 (5 credits each)
• 5 credits of Mathematics from courses numbered above 107
• 15 credits in Humanities distribution
• 15 credits in Social Sciences distribution
• 15 credits in Natural Sciences distribution, including at least one laboratory course (designated by an “L” in the course number)
• Elective courses
• A cumulative GPA of 2.00 in college-level courses

* Courses in 3 different subject areas must be selected from the course list within each distribution area.

Students pursuing an AA degree with an emphasis in the Fine Arts typically select electives from Art, Drama/Film Studies, English, Literature, Media/Communications, Music, or Speech. Your academic advisor can assist you with your selection on appropriate elective courses.

for more information

For more information about Fine Arts classes at Peninsula College call 360-417-6340 or toll-free in Washington 1-877-452-9277, ext. 6340.

express your creativity...showcase your talents...and practice the fine art of individual expression in the Fine Arts at Peninsula College!
The North Olympic Peninsula of Washington state and Peninsula College, in particular, are home to a treasure trove of artistic talent. Actors, painters, potters, musicians . . . our faculty have earned local, national, and international recognition for their creative works.

As a student of the fine arts at Peninsula College, you, too, could join this exceptional cadre of artists and performers! PC offers the Associate of Arts degree to students contemplating careers in the visual or performing arts.

Fine Arts Subject Areas
- Art
- Art History
- Drama
- Film Studies
- Media/Communications
- Music
- Music Performance

Art Classes

Drawing, Painting, Mixed Media

Shape, color, texture, and form come to life in PC art classes!

At Peninsula College you can choose from an eclectic palette of art classes as you explore opportunities for creative visual expression. Our small class sizes allow for individual attention from our instructors, and you will find that you are even able to work on a flexible schedule in some classes in order to practice new techniques and finish assignments.

As an art student at PC, your studies will include lessons from the “old masters” as well as experiments with contemporary mediums, composition, concepts, and techniques. Mediums range from pencil, charcoal, ink, pastels, watercolor, acrylics, and mixed media.

No previous art experience is necessary! Our instructors will help you “see” the world from an artist’s perspective and guide you through the process of making that vision come to life on paper, fabric, or canvas.

Drama and Film Studies

Enter stage left . . . theatrical and film studies at Peninsula College will bring out the actor, director, or producer in you. Whether in a classroom or on stage in the college’s Little Theater, students in our drama classes—drama appreciation or acting—discover that the whole world really is a stage for their ideas. Field trips to the Port Angeles Players, or to see performances in Seattle, highlight a vibrant, exciting drama curriculum.

If you’re interested in film or television, you can try your hand at screenwriting, enroll in our Art of Film classes, or earn credit for going to the movies on Friday nights, courtesy of PC’s Magic of Film series.

Media/Communications

The Media/Communications program at Peninsula College blurs the boundaries of professional and technical education and traditional transfer-degree programs. You’ll learn how to produce digital graphics and animations as well as other visual forms by using the kind of electronic technology used in the real world. Courses in web graphics and animation, among others, are often selected as elective courses for students who are enrolled in our AA degree programs.

Music/Music Performance

If you love music, you’ll love Peninsula College! On any given day, campus visitors, faculty, staff, and students may be serenaded by our choir or treated to a piano concerto, courtesy of our talented music faculty and students. PC also offers music appreciation classes in addition to performance-based courses, and you can sign up for individual instruction in piano, guitar, voice, or other instruments. As a choir member, you might have the chance to perform with symphony orchestras both here and in Canada. Our college choir has performed with the Vancouver Symphony in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, and many of our faculty and staff are members of the Port Angeles Symphony. But you aren’t limited to just voice — your musical talents can be expressed in many different ways through Peninsula College’s music program!

The Arts Are Alive at Peninsula College!

Our interest in the arts doesn’t stop in the classroom. In addition to excellent classroom instruction, Peninsula College offers a host of cultural events throughout the year. Some of these include:

- Regular art gallery exhibitions
- Pictures of the Year International, a photojournalism exhibition
- Plays, musical performances, and lectures as part of our weekly Studium Generale lecture and performance series. (You can also take this for credit!)